Over the past few months I have had many questions about the Ruff Weathervane. In this mini box of the good doctor, I will try to answer all the questions that have hit my desk.

Dr. Ruth was born to Freudian, Orthodox, and enjoyed the Nazis in 1938 when she made it to Switzerland. However, her parents did tragically die in the Nazi concentration camps. They World War II ended, Dr. Ruth spent six years in Israel and while there fought as the Haganah Israeli here to defend herself with hand grenades and was hit by shrapnel causing several wounds. After recovering from her injuries, a young Weathervane moved to Paris and studied psychology at the Sorbonne. She then earned a master's degree in sociology from the Graduate Faculty in the New School for Social Research. Dr. Ruth's doctorate is in the historical-religious study of the family from Teachers College at Columbia University in New York City.

Even with her very hectic schedule Dr. Ruth has a radio interview show, a syndicated radio program, a syndicated newspaper column. A busy schedule she still maintains her private practice in New York City for 15 hours a week. Thus way I don't lose touch with reality. That is how I know what's out there.

In addition, Dr. Ruth is a consultant to New York University-Bellevue Hospital's Department of Geriatrics and Kingsbrook Jewish Medical Center's Department of Rehabilitation.

Personally, Dr. Ruth is married to her husband Fred, a telecommunications engineer for Citibank and has two children, Joel and Miriam.

And why has Dr. Ruth been such a success? Naturally, I enjoy being Dr. Ruth. But I know that my success really shows that there is a vast hunger for factual information on sex and relationships.

"Human sexual behavior has to be learned. We are not birds or bees, just programmed for reproduction. We have to learn about everything we do. Bad teaching, or lack of teaching, works disaster.

"People deserve information on or what a subject. Not just in textbooks and lectures, but where the young, mature and old can find it easily. Information, advice and encouragement are badly needed, and also reassurance that the individual is not the only one who feels doubts and fears, or who feels pushed in directions that seem wrong, or who wants greater warmth, comfort, company and intimacy with another human being."

Q. Whee is Helen Hayes autobiography going to be released? Frankie U., Stroudsburg, Pa.

A. Miss Hayes, the first lady of American theater has finished her autobiography and it will hit the bookstands in a flurryish this April. The book is being published by Harcourt Brace Jovanovich and is said to filled with many fascinating stories, including some on Joan Crawford, Charlie Chaplin and Al Capone.

Q. Whatever happened to Linda Lavin who so wonderfully portrayed "Alice" on television for so many years. Gregg D., Brooklyn, N.Y.

A. Ms. Lavin, also a very big Broadway star is currently suing her husband, Rip Niven, for divorce. Lavin married actor director Niven in 1982, after she divorced Ron Leibman.

DEAR DIANE
by Diane Van Ardale

DEAR DIANE:

Last year I made a resolution that I've been able to deal with in the past but lately it's been getting the best of me. I'm not seeing anyone steadily, but it seems that when I do, I manage someone I like. I slither find my self making me in one of my friends. I'm friendly conversation with them. It has been this way for many years. I simply never could let it bother me, but lately every time I turn around, it happens. I'm wondering if I can do about this recurring problem. I think I'm always good in my duties and pay full attention to them when I'm still there on a date, but it never fails that my dates make comments on how attractive one of my friends is. I mind you, I'm not thrupped liver, either), or a friend of mine. Maybe I should hold on to this one. And if I don't have what I've had, by which usually happens any way. I'm not that my friends are disrespectful, but it's almost as if they have to have what I've had. I wonder if I should start a dating service instead, since I always meet these people anyway. I can pick up on who's going to be with who and am rarely ever wrong. Can you give me any suggestions?

T.D.D.

DEAR TED:

In the past years at Dot, I don't believe I've ever come across any thing quite as puzzling as you've described. Frankly what puzzles me is how willingly you accept such shabby treatment from those you've called friends and from your dates. At this point, I suspect you're subconsciously setting up these situations so that they are not real, exactly as you expect — a friend to your boyfriend with a date of your own. Perhaps you don't feel you really deserve a relationship, or you think, deserve a relationship, or you think, really bad. It could also be that you don't feel you could possibly measure up to your friends so you allow them to steal your thunder. A third thought is that you are actually afraid to establish a healthy loving, giving relationship, so you keep getting up mattresses and giving yourself excuses.

Whatever the reason, I believe you could benefit from some professional counseling. You are being cheated out of a beautiful part of life and I needn't be an Ann Landers soul searching and some help, you could find yourself establishing good healthy relationships with not only men, but women friends.

DEAR DEX
by Dexter Dyer

DEAR DEX,

To make a long story short, I'll start with this friend of mine's girl. She received Miss Piss-You-Off, the 13 year-old girl, I haven't seen her in six years, and she's been in jail for five years, going on three. They gave him 35 years.

Dex, I've read your articles, you really give good advice. I wrote him a letter when he was in jail for the first two years, but I haven't seen him in six years, it seems as if he left me just yesterday. I had been his girlfriend for a few months before all this happened. He never took anything strange. We've been writing to each other for almost a year now. He proposed to me over the phone! Even though we haven't seen each other for six years. Anyway, Dex, I have three children. I'm 22 years old. Even though I have three children, he wants to marry me. He asked me if I wanted that people will say I'm married to a murderer I said no. If he doesn't mind people will say I'm not the father of my children. Dex, all I'm asking from you is, is he worth all three years of waiting?

CONFUSED, BUT IN LOVE

DEAR CONFUSED:

Considering that man has been sentenced to jail for the murder of a 13 year-old child, I would strongly suggest you put him from your mind as soon as possible, and get on with your life. The judge and the jury found this man guilty, and you want to marry a man such as this, with your three children around? He could murder you or for that matter your children I suggest you take a good look at the situation and if you find you still want to marry him, I highly recommend that you see a therapist. There are many men out there if you just give them the chance. Regarding your children, there are men out there who wouldn't mind being a stepfather, providing they love you and the kids. Don't give up on love, but do take time to think about what's best for you and your children's future. Good luck.

THE CHOPPING BLOCK
by Philomena Corradeno

Sounds like an ideal dessert but I believe it's a filling dessert from the French province of Lithuania, an area known for its otherwise good sweets and Limoges china.

Pat Lang French Chefmate together before dinner pop it into the oven just before you sit down and in 45 minutes it's puffy and golden and ready to enjoy.

EASY PEACH FLAPJACK
½ cup chopped walnuts
2 eggs
1 cup milk
1 cup whole wheat flour
½ cup all purpose flour
½ cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
Ice cream vanilla yogurt or heavy cream

Heat oven to 400F. Drain peaches; reserve juice to another use and quarter peaches. Place eggs milk, flours, brown sugar and vanilla in blender cover and whirl until smooth. Pour into pie plate and arrange peaches in center. Sprinkle with walnuts. Bake 45 minutes or until pie is puffy and golden. Top with ice cream vanilla yogurt or heavy cream. Makes 6 servings.

I could expect this dessert to come from Lithuania. As a matter it was developed by Marion Cunningham, Chef Carmen Jones for the International House and Chef Julia Child. The Most Famous in my version of her Savoy Mousse.

GATEAU AU CHOCOLAT — CREAM MENTHE (Chocolate Cake — Mint Cream)

The ABC press release says "their names are synonymous with action, comedy and romance." They are Warren Beatty, Chevy Chase and Arnold Schwarzenegger — and I'd love it to you to decide which description fits which actor (After all, who's seen more action than Beatty??) The three will be interviewed on "The Barbara Walters Special" on ABC, tonight (Academy Award night), Monday March 26 (8-9 p.m. ET) and after the Academy Awards on the West Coast).

Meanwhile, there's a rumblings to come out about Beatty and his "Dick Tracy" costar, Madonna Last time, we told you there were rumors they'd been a item for a video. The most recent tale being wagged around town is that Madonna is very close to doing what no other woman has ever been able to do for Warren, namely get him to crash in his bachelor chips for the first time We'll see

Before leaving this item, did you know the woman who costarred with Arnold in "Terminator" was Linda Hamilton late of "Beauty & the Beast," and that Schwarzenegger was one of the actors considered for the role of Vincent (which was played superbly by Ron Perlman, of course)?

A few years ago, everyone wanted to do Dallas Cowgirls shows about the gorgeous cheerleaders for the Dallas Cowboys football team. Now, the movies are being made on the Laker Girls who cheer for the Los Angeles Lakers basketball team. Expect to see several TV flicks about these ladies, starting with CBS' upcoming movie "Laker Girls," starring Tina Yothers. ("Family Ties") as one of three young women whose life dream is to rub rub for L.A.

RICK NELSON REMEMBERED: "It's All Right Now" is the name of the 60-minute program on the late Rick Nelson airing on TNN (The Nashville Network) March 10 (repeating March 15) Nelson, whose daughter Tracey stars on "The Father Dowling Mysteries" (ABC), once told me that although he made his early reputation as an actor, music was his great love and he hoped to be able to devote his life to it. He died in a plane crash on January 31, 1986 during a concert tour at age 45.

THOUGHTFUL IDEA — We were recently invited to a wedding and while in the store purchasing a gift and card for the happy couple I came up with a thoughtful idea.

I also purchased a first-class stamp. When I got home I addressed it and wrote the date it should be mailed on the envelope where the stamp will be placed.

I am pleased to say that each time I am invited to a wedding The couple will be getting one. Im sure Janie S. Warren, Ohio

Coupon Corner
by Rose Lynn

I have 2 ½ in Spokane, Wash. You asked about what the terms "double coupons" meant. Double coupons are sometimes offered by stores in certain areas. What happens is you bring in a regular manufacturer's coupon. When you purchase the product the store deducts the coupon value twice. In other words, let's assume you buy a bag of dog food that costs $1.00. You have a coupon valued at 50 cents. When you check out, you give the cashier the coupon. He rings up the sale of $1.00, then deducts 50 cents for the coupon, and another 50 cents to double the coupon. Your bill is now $0.00.

I hear P.B. in Baltimore, Md. Regarding your nursing forgery Intolerant Beach bag, indeed, you mentioned that the seller was upon sewed by Fab Fixtures II and Action. Why he's try calling the companies toll free numbers? The number is 1 (800) 1 6677. They should be able to help you. Be sure to add the numbers to your list of toll free numbers for future reference.

I hear A.L. in Lawyer N.J. I'm sorry I don't have the address from the Chex cereal box you requested. You can however, try to obtain the information directly from Chex by calling them toll free number The number is 1 (800) 328-1110.

Paint & Household
by Bob D'Angelo

Q. In April of 1988, I purchased one case of a popular white latex paint. Two to three. I left the paint unopened in my garage. My question is due to the recent freezing temperatures, will I still be able to use the paint in the spring? P.M. Middletown, N.J

A. Unfortunately no. Freezing a can of latex paint is a problem that will spoil. Even after the paint thaws it is still unusable. Fortunately it is so unusable that you will notice as soon as you open the can. Frozen latex paint looks like rubber cottage cheese. How do I know? I've had more than my share of frozen paint.

The rubber way that paint goes bad is when the lid isn't properly replaced. Often, paint accumulates around the rim of the can and when you attempt to put the lid back on, it doesn't seal properly. Here's the key. Punch several holes using a nail in the rim of the can. This allows for the paint to flow back into the can. Then place a rag over the lid and tap it securely into the can. The previous paint from splashing.

Q. I have a rather expensive wooden garage door, about 10 years old with lots of grooved detail work on it. I'm sure it has never been sanded. But two thirds of the door was painted with a dark stain when it was new leaving the bottom third unpainted. This bottom portion has developed a gross stain presumably from the weather

Is there any way I can correct this neglect, and put a reasonably attractive finish to this door? Since I am not very knowledge able in this type of endeavor, I hope you can help. P.W Commack, N.Y

A. The first rule of staining Never have your husband, or any other sports fan start a staining job just prior to any sporting event As soon as the bird flu round one wounds down goes the paint brush and the feet go on the couch. The problem is when you return to the stain in the middle of a job it will have already dried and the new stain will create lap marks. You will give the appearance of a bar graph. If for any other reason you must stop staining, make sure it's a corner or the end of a side

The green that is exposed on the bottom third is mildew. Mildew is my favorite paint topic as my primary business is powerwashing which is the most effective and affordable way to remove mildew After powerwashing the door free of the mildew restain with the same color stain Start with the contained, then go on to give it at least two coats to achieve overall tonality. Do it early Saturday morning during the cartoons
